UNION OPPOSED WALKOUT

New Leader Refuses To Back Strikers "Trying To Wreck Our Organization."

By The Associated Press

FLINT, Mich., June 10 — The Saginaw valley's half million industrial population—whose work and play was stopped for nearly 24 hours by the second strike of Consumers Power Co. employes in three weeks—resumed normal pursuits today.

Homer B. Palmer, district manager, said in Saginaw that the power company's 1,209 or more employes would return to work immediately on their regular shifts. Its "ample power" was assured for all industries.

Employes of a key substation at Owosso, Mich., ratified early today an agreement which a negotiating committee brought by plane from Washington. Their vote was 41 to 15.

Bay City rejected the proposals, saying the city of Saginaw would have more sufficient power for industrial purposes despite the fact that Saginaw strikers had ratified the pact earlier by a 65 to 22 vote and turned the switches that provided current for darkened homes.

In Bay City, strikers voted to report for service and return to work, but did not actually ratify the agreement, which Robert Travis, United Automobile Workers of America organizer, said provided the Committee for Industrial Organization with sole bargaining rights and granted employes wage increases. They were to vote on the agreement today, and leaders predicted acceptance.

The strikers, in restoring service in Saginaw and Bay City, followed the lead of their fellows in Flint, the largest of 122 affected communities. The negotiating committee headed by Wyndham Mortimer, first vice president of the U. A. W., went directly to Flint, after the persuasive powers of Homer Martin, U. A. W. president, had failed earlier to sway a striking group that demanded to see the agreement in writing.

Martin left that meeting with the words, "I cannot recommend my support for a movement started by men who are trying to wreck our union organization." Earlier he had announced the power strike was unauthorized.

ROOSEVELT URGES DOCTORS AID NEEDY

Seeks Cooperation of Medical Association in Providing for Those Lacking Funds.

By The Associated Press

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 10—A personal message from President Roosevelt asking cooperation in plans to give medical care to those unable to pay for it, was delivered to the house of delegates of the American Medical association here today by U. S. Sen. J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois.

The message was delivered in secret executive session. Its gist was given out at the close of the session by Dr. Morris Fishbein, official spokesman for the association.

He said that Sen. Lewis telephoned the President and asked:

"What shall I say to the American Medical association?"

The answer was first to seek cooperation of the doctors in care for the medically poor.

Second, Sen. Lewis said, that legislation is under consideration on which recommendations of the doctors are desired concerning distribution of medical care, and arrangements for patients to select their own physicians.

SOCIETY FIGURE FEARED KILLED OR KIDNAPED

BLOOD-STAINED AX FOUND

May Have Been Used To Kill Chickens But Police Guard It Carefully.

By The Associated Press

STONY BROOK, N. Y., June 10 Two theories—kidnaping or murder—confronted government investigators seeking to unravel the mystery today of the disappearance of Mrs. Alice Parsons, 38, New York social registerite, from her fashionable North Shore home on Long Island.

Bolstering the abduction theory was a note, pencilled on cheap white ruled paper, enclosed in a cheap white envelope, addressed to William H. Parsons, husband of the missing woman. Parsons is a Yale graduate and retired business man.

The note was unsigned. It demanded $25,000 and contained the sinister suggestion that police activity might mean death for Mrs. Parsons.

Blood Stains on Ax

In support of the murder theory was a blood-stained ax, found on the grounds of the Parsons' chicken farm. The investigators carefully wrapped the ax and expected to make an analysis of the stains, though it was suggested the ax might have been used to kill chickens.

The ransom note was found last night shortly after Parsons, returning from a trip to New York City and finding his wife missing, notified the state police barracks at Bay Shore, on the south side of the island.

It was addressed to "Bill Parsons." The authorities would not disclose its contents, but it was learned from a reliable source the note read:

"I have your wife. Bring $25,000 to the Jamaica bus terminal within the next 24 hours and my men will meet you and call you by name. Do not bring any cops. If you do Alice will never speak to you again."

Worth $500,000

Mrs. Parsons, the former Alice W. McDonell, was said to be worth about $200,000, of which she recently inherited $50,000. Her husband, too, was said to be well-to-do.

The story of Mrs. Parsons' disappearance came from Mrs. Anna Kupryonova, described by the police as a high-born Russian woman, who had worked for the Parsons family about four years.

Mrs. Kupryonova, Assistant District Attorney Joseph S. Arata of Suffolk county reported, said a middle-aged couple called for Mrs. Parsons yesterday morning at the Parsons' home, "Long Meadow Farm," and that the matron drove off with them.

Parsons had gone to New York City, 65 miles away, yesterday morning to meet two Russians at Tenth street and Second avenue on the lower east side of Manhattan. The appointment with the Russians, he told Arata, had been made by Mrs. Kupryonova after he had expressed a desire to learn how to make a Russian delicacy called English squab paste.

Drive to Station

Mrs. Parsons drove him to the railroad station at St. James about 10 miles away and promised to meet him when he returned about sunset.

Parsons told Arata he got off the train at Stony Brook a little after 7 o'clock last night, waited a time for his wife, and then slightly perturbed by her failure to appear, took a taxi home.

From Mrs. Kupryonova he learned his wife had gone off with two apparent strangers, he said. He called police late last night.

An eight-state police alarm was sent out.

"I'm going over to the Sammis place."

The "Sammis place" was described by Arata as an estate near Huntington, about 15 miles away, in which Mrs. Parsons had an interest.

Note Under Car Seat

Bert Walker, investigator for the district attorney's office, found the $25,000 ransom note stuck under the front seat of Parsons' car.

Six department of justice agents conferred with local officers early today.

The officers concentrated on the story as told them by Mrs. Kupryonova, who lived with the Parsons family with her 11-year-old son Roy. The Parsons have no children.

Two state troopers arrived at the Parsons home in mid-morning with two big blood hounds.

After getting a lead from Mrs. Parsons' clothing the dogs began searching the surrounding woods.

Wore Blue Dress

Mrs. Parsons was described as of medium height and weighing about 126 pounds. She has gray hair and gray eyes, and when last seen was wearing a blue dress with red buttons, and a blue hat.

In New York City Assistant Chief Inspector John A. Lyons said the case was temporarily listed with the missing persons bureau.

Ball Team Owner Comes To Plan League Opener

Thompson Contracts for Use of Lincoln Park, Arranges To Build Fence for First Game June 22.

R. R. Thompson of Toledo, owner of the Sandusky Ohio State League baseball team, was in Marion today completing final negotiations to move the team here by June 22, when it is scheduled to play Findlay.

Thompson and Carter M. Patton, secretary of the Marion park board, this morning closed the deal which gave the Sandusky club the privilege to use the Lincoln park stadium and playing field for the remainder of the present season and for 1938. Work is to be started this week on erection of a wooden fence around the baseball field, Thompson said.

He visited the Lincoln Park field in a drizzling rain this morning and reported he was well pleased with the condition of the diamond, although it has not been used this season. Accompanying him was Lester Crawford of Sandusky, who is to return here Saturday to supervise construction of the fence and work on the field.

"Booster" Drive Planned

Representatives of the Junior Chamber of Commerce were to meet with Mr. Thompson this afternoon to iron out final details for a "booster day" ticket drive which the organization is sponsoring for the support of the ball club. Junior Chamber members will meet en masse Friday night to swing into action with a sale of the booster day tickets in an effort to net $2,000 which will assure the club's return for the complete 1938 season.

No special plans have yet been formulated for an opening day program, but it is likely, Thompson said today, that his team and other organizations interested in the new stadium will combine their efforts in a formal dedication later in the season. At present the new concrete WPA stadium is three-fourths completed and will be ready in its entirety by July 20.

Near First Place

For the first games in Marion the portion of the stadium already completed will be used. The team which will have the stadium as its home park, is now playing under the banner of the Sandusky Sailors. At present the club is one-half game out of first place, trailing the Mansfield Red Sox.

League games were cancelled by rain yesterday making no change in the standings, which give Mansfield first place with a record of 13 games won, four lost and a .765 average, Sandusky second with 13 won, five lost and a .722 average. The averages of other league members is Fremont and Findlay .500, Tiffin .400 and Fostoria .311.

Possibility that a player from this section may be able to break in with the Sandusky ball club immediately or soon after the team arrives here was seen today in Thompson's statement that he is searching for an outfielder.

Local players are especially desired by the management of the team and any youths who are able to play the brand of ball necessary for a team of this rating are invited to try out with the team. Manager James "Chapple" Geygan, formerly with the Boston Red Sox and Columbus American Association teams, leads the team on the field and takes the second base position. He also is responsible for accepting any local talent which may be available, Thompson said.

WALSH AND DUDLEY LEAD GOLF TOURNEY

Trim Two Shots From Par as They Tour Course to Post Pair of 70's.

By The Associated Press

BIRMINGHAM, Mich., June 10—Ripping two shots from par apiece as they toured the course together in sensational style, Big Ed Dudley of Philadelphia and Frank Walsh, rival Chicago pro, posted a pair of 70's today to take the lead in the first round of the U. S. open golf championship at the Oakland Hills Country club.

Dudley missed a five-foot put on the home green for a 69 and a chance to gain undisputed lead. Big Ed's round included an eagle on the 491-yard eighth, where he dropped a 15-foot putt. He three-putted the fifth and missed a putt of barely a yard on the 14th. But got birdies on the 13th and 16th as well as the home hole.

Walsh finished sensationally with an incoming 34, two under par, thanks to birdies on the 13th, 16th and 18th. His sensational putting offset some wildness off the tees.

2,500 Gallons of Gasoline Spill in Truck Crash

Approximately 2,500 gallons of gasoline—enough to carry the average car 50,000 miles—sank uselessly into a corn field early today and created an imminent hazard of fire as a gasoline truck and trailer turned over on Route 23 one-half mile south of the Children's home. A deputy from the sheriff's office remained on the scene from 3:30 a. m. until about 8:30 guarding against a chance cigaret or spark that might throw an area of several hundred square feet into flames.

The mishap occurred as Dwight Kelly, 24, of Detroit, Mich., was driving a truck and tank trailer from Homer, O., where he had filled the tank, through to his home office at Detroit. The truck was owned by The Aurora Gasoline Co.

Kelly told Deputy Sheriff W. H. Willis who guarded the scene that he didn't know how it happened and said he might have gone to sleep. He said he had slept seven and a half hours in Columbus before starting north.

The truck left the road and struck a concrete abutment of a culvert on the east side, knocked down three panels of wire fencing on the farm of Merle Young and narrowly missed striking an electric or telephone wire. The trailer tank upset, the cap of the tank being knocked off. Gasoline immediately began to pour out, spreading over the highway and over approximately an acre of young corn on the Young farm.

Deputy Willis said if the wire had been struck, there might have been an explosion.

Kelly, who was uninjured, was not thrown from the cab. The truck was able to be driven into Marion and a wrecker was sent after the trailer. Damage to the truck and trailer was estimated at $60. The corn, which probably was killed or will be by the gasoline, would have brought approximately $65 according to Deputy Willis.

The gasoline, worth approximately 10 cents a gallon wholesale, had an estimated total value of $250. The hitching apparatus between the trailer and truck was also damaged. The culvert which the truck hit was six or seven feet off the pavement.

A crowd was attracted to the scene as the road became more heavily traveled near dawn and had to be kept back to prevent fire, Deputy Willis said.

THREE DIE IN CHAIR FOR KILLING FIREMAN

Pay Penalty for Mutilation Murder of Cincinnati Fire Captain.

By The Associated Press

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., June 10—Defiant and sullen until the last second before high-voltage current snuffed out their lives, three former Ohio convicts trudged "the last mile" today in payment for the mutilation murder of Harry B. Miller, retired Cincinnati fire captain.

Only nine persons—prison officials, doctors and ministers — viewed the first triple execution in Indiana state prison's 36-year history. "Goodby, boys," yelled William A. Kuhlman, the first to climb into the electric chair, in tones heard several hundred feet away.

He sneered as straps were affixed. At 12:16 a. m. (C. S. T.) he was pronounced dead by Dr. P. H. Weeks, prison physician.

Frank Gore Williams and Joseph Poholsky falteringly followed. Their demeanor coldly showed no remorse for the ruthless hacking a year ago tomorrow.

Dr. Weeks pronounced Williams dead at 12:27 and Poholsky, at 12:28½.

Within earshot was a restless fourth man, Heber L. (Jimmy) Hicks, under sentence to die for the crime. He has appealed to the Indiana supreme court, which will rule on his conviction.

Hicks was the only one to appeal, the others having pleaded guilty.

Miller, a frugal man who had accumulated $150,000 through wise investments, disappeared last June 11 from his summer home at New Trenton, Ind. A body, the head and hands missing, was found stuffed in a culvert near Eminence, Ky., 10 days later. On June 23 Miller's head and hands were found embedded in concrete in a lake near Carrollton, Ky.

LAW TO GOVERN UNIONS ASKED

Spokesman for Manufacturers Attacks Spread of Industrial Disorders.

OPPOSES WAGE PROPOSAL

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 10 — A spokesman for the National Association of Manufacturers asked congress today to consider reasonable controls over labor organizations.

James A. Emery, the association's general counsel, testifying against wage and hour provisions of the labor standards bill, said:

"We are confronted at present with unjustifiability interrupted production where collective agreements have been made, local disorder is spreading and costly strife will reflect itself in commodity prices.

"We can not believe that the labor organizations of the United States are unwilling to accept the same responsibility to the public within the field of commerce that is properly imposed upon business organizations.

"If the indirect control of production in the name of commerce proposed in this bill is valid, it is equivalent to an assertion that every strike is a restraint of trade and an obstruction of commerce."

Emery asked separation of child labor provisions from the rest of the bill. He said the Manufacturers' association believes in barring persons under 16 from industry and persons under 18 from hazardous employment.

He opposed, however, "the vast and ambiguous power granted to a board of five to limit the earning power of labor, the hours of production and conditions of employment."

AMELIA FLIES OVER AFRICAN WILDERNESS

By The Associated Press

DAKAR, French Senegal, June 10—Amelia Earhart flew eastward across Africa's wild expanse today despite warnings that tornadoes ranged the path of her "just for fun" round-the-world flight.

After a smooth takeoff at 6:55 a. m., (1:55 a. m. Marion time), from Ouakam airport, the airwoman headed for Gao, 1,140 miles east and north of here on the Niger river, having altered somewhat her previously set course on account of unfavorable weather.

She had planned to fly to Nalmey, French Niger colony, 250 miles southeast of Gao and due east of Dakar.

Arising before dawn, Miss Earhart hurried to the airfield where she received reports of barometric depeadons and tornadoes in the Sudanese region in the heart of Africa over which she had charted her course.

So she decided to swing slightly to the north to Gao but maintained the general direction of her itinerary through the center of the continent toward Lake Chad, French equatorial Africa.

14 PICKETS JAILED

Plans To Reopen Monroe Plant Made in Face of Union Promise to Have 10,000 Men at Gates.

By The Associated Press

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 10—Police and sheriff's deputies clashed with great lakes steel strike pickets here early today leaving 17 persons injured even as plans went forward for reopening a Republic Steel Corp. plant at Monroe, Mich., in the face of a barricade which John L. Lewis unionists said would number "8,000 to 10,000" men.

Hand-to-hand fighting broke out at the rain-swept gates of the strike-closed Republic plant in this northeastern Ohio industrial city as a food-laden truck roared down a viaduct ramp into the mill, occupied by maintenance men and company guards.

Tear gas and night sticks were brought into play by the 50 policemen and deputies against a force of several hundred strikers. The strikers gave way only after at least 14 of their number were gassed. Two policemen received head injuries and a spectator was wounded by an exploding tear gas shell.

Mist Shades Peace Moves

The newest outbreak of violence in the bloody controversy which already has cost eight lives overshadowed peace moves by governors of Ohio and Michigan in the Steel Workers Organizing Committee strike for signed contracts.

The 50 pickets on duty under the viaduct amid a heavy rainfall shouted to fellow unionists for aid at the plant entrance. They claimed a police squad car escorted the food truck. Police said their cruiser "by coincidence" had preceded the truck but that the cruiser did not enter company grounds.

Pickets placed a car across the road under the viaduct, blocking it. Police attempted to remove the car. Strikers surrounded them in steadily increasing numbers.

Suddenly fighting broke out. Tear gas was released and night sticks brought into play and the melee ended. Many received minor injuries.

14 Pickets In Jail

Fourteen pickets were arrested, marched to waiting armored trucks and lodged in the Mahoning county jail, beaten on the head with clubs were City Patrolman Roy Welch and Detective Mike Flynn. "Nig" Ross, who identified himself as a spectator, received a leg wound.

The outbreak came shortly after heads of Republic and Sheet & Tube agreed to be represented at a conference with SWOC leaders Friday in the office of Gov. Martin L. Davey at Columbus, but declined to attend personally.

At the same time, 200 special police were sworn in at Monroe, Mich., to bulwark Police Chief Jesse Fisher's force of 20 patrolmen and Sheriff Joseph Bailey's 50 deputies for the announced reopening late today of Republic's subsidiary, the Newton Steel Co.

Steel workers and newly deputized special policemen drove a Negro organizer for the Committee for Industrial Organization out of the city shortly before noon.

Fifteen or twenty men seized the organizer, Leonidas McDonald on Monroe's principal street as he attempted to flee in his automobile.

They made him leave the motor-car, beat him and forced him to walk a mile out of the city, toward Toledo. There, they said, an automobile containing four or five men picked him up and headed westward.

Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan obtained an eight-hour delay in the reopening to permit a mid-day peace conference at Lansing, Mich., between the company, SWOC unionists and a "back to work" group, but the company went ahead with determined plans to reopen.

"The plant will open at 4 p. m. today whether the Lansing negotia-

"Having a wonderful time—but sure miss X-70!"

—say Ohioans who miss the money-saving mileage and performance of Ohio's most popular gasoline when they travel out of the state!

GOT 3 MORE MILES PER GALLON WITH SOHIO X-70! "We left Canton, Ohio, with a full tank of X-70 for Berlin, Pa., and kept track of mileage. We got three more miles per gallon going over than we got coming back using another brand of gas."—(Letter from Auburn owner of Canton, O. Name on request.)

DRIVES 30,000 MILES ANNUALLY. "My driving covers three states. When I come back over Ohio's state line and get X-70 in my tank, I notice more power on hills and a distinct improvement on mileage. Moreover, I certainly appreciate the accurate tips on road conditions that I receive at SOHIO stations."—(Letter from Sandusky, O. Ford owner. Name on request.)

CAR RAISED A RUMPUS ON "FOREIGN" GAS! "We just got back from a trip in the west. Away from our dependable X-70, we encountered knocking and performance that was none too hot. This trouble seemed unusual in our trusty old car, but when we got home again to X-70 our trouble ended!"—(Letter from LaSalle owner, Toledo, O. Name on request.)

Oftentimes you don't realize how good a thing is until you do without it.

When you travel out of Ohio and compare SOHIO X-70 with other gasolines, you gain a new appreciation of X-70's superior performance . . . you see for yourself that it delivers money-saving mileage. SOHIO X-70 users say X-70 is a safer gasoline, too. Standard Oil's special refining processes not only give you a motor fuel free from harmful impurities but SOHIO X-70's spirited power helps you avoid road emergencies. POCKETBOOK TAKEN IN HOLDUP FOUND

A pocketbook identified as belonging to E. A. Breyman of 202 Belmont street, who reported to police he was held up and robbed of $50 Tuesday night, was found yesterday on George street by W. F. Williams, an employe of the Huber Mfg. Co. The pocketbook was found about 500 feet east of Greenwood street on the south side of George street.

Mr. Breyman, an insurance agent, told police he was putting his car in the garage when two men robbed him. The scene of the holdup was on Belmont street. Breyman was able to give police only a meager description of the pair.

TOWNSHIP TO WAR ON NOXIOUS WEEDS

Trustees Send Letters to Land Owners and Tenants Asking Cooperation.

In an attempt to eradicate noxious weeds from Pleasant township, the board of trustees this week will send out notices to 200 farmers asking their cooperation in the campaign. The notices were prepared by Damon C. Allmendinger, clerk of the board.

The notice explains that weeds, particularly Canada thistles, are increasing on the lands of the township and that state law requires landowners and tenants to clean up the weeds each year before June 20.

If such individual action is not taken by the deadline, Mr. Allmendinger says the trustees can give five days additional notice and then order the work done by workmen. The cost will then become a lien on the property and will be collected as taxes, he said.

The board expects to enforce the state law through this summer and fall, Mr. Allmendinger said. County officials said today that Pleasant township is virtually the only one of the 15 in the county that attempts to carry out the weed control law.

FACES CHARGE OF DRUNKEN DRIVING

He was taken into custody near the north city limits and was driving south on state route 23. McClung was being held in the city prison this morning pending arraignment in municipal court.

RELIEF FOOD COST IS LOWER

Report Shows Drop for 1936 Under Expense Here in 1935.

A purchase of $53,592 in the total cost of all edible surplus commodities for relief families in Marion county in 1936 as compared with the cost in 1935 is noted in a report received yesterday by county welfare officers and relief officials. The cost in 1936 was $25,455 and in 1935 was $79,047. Carl Campbell, commodity distributor for the county, attributed the decrease in costs to the decrease in the number of families on relief.

In addition to food commodities, the distribution made of clothing and mattresses were available for the first cost of both food and clothing but Mr. Campbell said in 1936 the cost of both types of commodities was $56,011, less than the cost of food alone for 1935.

The cost is largely borne by the federal government although the county commissioners pay a small part. The report on 1936 and 1935 food costs was made by S. D. Dwire of Sandusky, district supervisor for WPA and other federal agencies.

The list of the food distributed here are canned beef, celery, rice, canned milk, prunes and canned grapefruit juice. The food is shipped by the federal government to a warehouse at Mansfield and then trucked to Marion by local trucks. All except perishable food is distributed through 10 centrally located grocery stores. The perishable food is given out at relief headquarters.

Those who share in the distribution are direct relief families and some of the extremely needy cases receiving old age and mother's pensions and rural resettlement aid.

Food distribution is made each Wednesday on the basis of standing orders granted to each family until its case is closed from relief.

All the clothing is made at the WPA sewing center at relief headquarters and is distributed each Thursday by special order.

The clothing includes dresses of all types, women's and children's underclothing, diapers, layettes, infant garments, night gowns, men's and boys' shirts, men's pants, play suits, rag rugs, bedspreads, wash cloths and towels and shorts.

Treatment of Sick.

CAREFUL NURSING is often the most important factor in the successful treatment of the sick. Many of us in the medical profession are ready to admit that in the care of certain diseases, expert nursing is more important than any medicine that can be prescribed. Rapid recovery and permanent cure may be determined by the degree of car given the patient during the period of acute illness.

It is well for every one of us to be familiar with the simple ways of making a sick person comfortable. Often a trained nurse is not available, or, desirable as her services would be, the expense can not be borne by the family. In every family there is apt to be at least one who has a "knack" of caring for the sick. This person should be made the "boss" and given the responsibility of looking after the sick person and his room.

Perhaps I will be forgiven if I talk a bit to her. This will permit me to point out some important matters. If you are taking care of a person with an infectious, a "catching" disease, like a nurse you should wear a washable uniform or apron that will bear being boiled. By looking fresh and clean it encourages cleanliness for all in the household.

Each time you are about to enter the sick room it is well to scrub your hands with hot, soapy water—lots of water. This should be repeated after handling the patient. Infections are almost always hand borne, so to have clean hands is of first importance.

The patient's linen, handkerchiefs, bedding and dishes should be kept separate from those of the remainder of the family. They should be cleansed and scoured in a separate basin. Plenty of soap and hot water is needed.

In highly-contagious diseases it may be advisable, when working over the patient, for the attendant to wear a mask covering the nose, mouth and neck. This can be made from a square piece of gauze to which are attached bits of tape to tie at the back of the head.

The patient should be made as comfortable as possible, of course. Smooth sheets and plenty of soft pillows will help. The hair should be brushed and neatly combed, and the hands and face of the patient washed in the morning, evening and always after meals. If the doctor thinks it proper, a daily bath should not be overlooked. If bathing is prohibited cleanliness can be maintained by sponging with alcohol or tepid water.

After the patient has completely recovered, the room should be thoroughly cleansed and aired. Exposure to sunlight and the use of adequate soap and water takes the place of the old-fashioned "fumigation." The bed sheets and linen should be boiled.

If the mattress has been protected during the sickness by a rubber sheet, it need not be discarded. The surface of the mattress can be brushed with thick soap suds, mopped with absorbent cloths, and then thoroughly aired in the sun. The floors, woodwork, windows, window sills and other surfaces should be carefully scoured. After this has been done, you can be assured that the room will be free of germs and ready for its usual purpose.

Answers to Health Queries

MRS. A. S. Q—Can a chronic case of —— ever be cured? The patient is a man. What is the treatment?

A—Such diseases require specific medical attention. The treatment should be outlined by the doctor who is familiar with all the underlying facts and circumstances. Talk with your doctor. He will advise you.

J. O. H. Q—I am having trouble with my eyelids. I thought at first it was a sty but it's not. The lid is red and slightly swollen and has the appearance of being chapped. I applied a healing salve and that seemed to irritate it. What do you advise?

A—It would be advisable to consult your doctor and have your eyes examined. For further particulars restate your question and send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

IT'S ODD

But It's Science

BY HOWARD BALKESLEE

Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK—Dust tries to turn away from the heat. That is, if there is a hot wire in a bulb full of air, and the walls of the bulb are cooler than the wire, dust inside will deposit on the walls.

The dust rushes away from the hot wire. This fact, discovered by Tyndall many years ago, now promises to become useful — to give the medical profession some-

Artificial radium can be produced in nearly all the 92 natural chemical substances by electric bombardment. But it can't always be extracted. At the Imperial College of Science and Technology in London it has been discovered that artificial radium particles, trying to get away from a hot wire, fall like rain out of dusts or gases containing them.

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

By Esther Tyler

(Copyright, 1937, Esther Tyler)

SYNOPSIS: A mysterious shot kills Jody Hitchcock, old flame of the start of our story, works end at Farrington Bluff, home of Michael's aunts. Strange attacks follows; then we find the body of Michael's aunt's father below the bluff. Aunt Victorian Aunt Martha is shot in the shoulder and nearly frightened with sleeping powders. The Skipper, Mike's tall, tow-ed younger aunt, disappears; we find her six hours later, bound in the loft, all but dead. A shot draws us to the room of Higgins, the butler, whom we had already suspected shortly before. He is dead, supposedly a suicide.

CHAPTER 4

Sudden No. 3

I SLUNKED dazedly. That was the question. What earthly reason could there be for Higgins' amazing actions? A contented gentle old man with the rest of his life mapped out for him as pleasantly as anyone could wish, suddenly goes haywire and kills a girl he has known since her babyhood, a man whom he has spent a good part of his life caring for, and finally attempts to kill the two people who represent all the family and security that he has. It didn't make sense. There could be no question of money as a motive. I happened to know that the entire Farrington fortune had been left in trust for Michael by his grandfather with a request that Higgins be provided for as long as he lived. The only solution seemed to be insanity.

"It's a hopeless mess, William. Can you think what could have ailed him?"

William shook his head. "Must have been plumb nutty, I guess. Didn't seem like that, but he must have been. Funny. You know, when I was working for the Bilmshops I always thought Higgins was crazy about Miss Judith."

I looked around that bare little room and shivered. Then I walked out—very softly.

My watch said 20 minutes past six. There was little point in trying to hustle people off to bed. We were bound to be routed out again within a very few hours, and I knew from experience that a little sleep is worse than none at all. It was highly doubtful that anyone would be able to sleep anyway.

Snapping on the low lamp on the dresser, I turned out the plaguing overhead lights. Gently I now closed the door on Higgins' room and made off in the direction of the main house. Cold showers, breakfast and a plan of action were in order.

Michael's room was empty, but in mine the Skipper was still sleeping soundly. Gay was standing at the window.

"Where are the others?" I whispered.

"I'm not sure. They went down the hall somewhere—Miss Farrington's room, I guess. Jim—are you sure it's over?"

"Absolutely sure, Gay. Was the Skipper disturbed at all?"

"No." Her hands were restless. "Whatever possessed him? Does anyone know?"

I drew her into the next room. "I doubt it," I said, "and doubt if anyone ever will. Now listen, kid. Go take a cold shower and freshen up. William will stir up some breakfast. See that Aunt Martha does the same thing and send Mike along to me. All the majesty of the law is going to be here around here in a little while and it isn't going to be much fun."

"O.K." There was something about the jaunty tilt of the kid's chin that I liked. I stopped her.

"Gay," I said, "there'll be a pretty big fuss over this in the papers. If Mike suddenly gets noble ideas about not soiling the hem of your gown, don't let him get away with it."

She flashed me a grin that sent my spirits soaring.

"Sonny," she said, "if he thinks he can get away from me now, he'll need the militia to help him."

Michael Gets a Shower

Her feet clattered cheerfully down the hall. Hauling out clean clothes, I felt a little better. It was over at last. I was jumping around in the shower when I heard Michael come in. Grabbing a towel, I strode dripping after him.

But if my spirits were up, he were hitting a new all-time low. He flopped down on the bed.

"Don't be such a damned Polly-anna," he growled.

My spirits began to slide. "How's M. Farrington?"

"How do you think? Jim, what the devil do you suppose killed him? Who did he do it? It's—it's—"

"Put it out, Mike," I said. "We don't know and probably we never will. What difference does it make now? Get into that shower. You're all in."

Michael kicked at the rug. "It makes a lot of difference. Higgins never had a thing wrong with him in his life. And he never did a thing in his life but look after my damned family."

Michael has an Irish streak which calls for the noble and high dramatic. Right then I had no answer for him. I tell rather like a person lost in the woods who knows there is an animal of some sort behind him but doesn't dare turn around to look. Higgins might have had a motive. But just then I didn't care to turn around and look at it.

"The police," I said, "will have no reason for thinking anything but that the poor old chap lost his mind. You haven't either. Stop trying to dig yourself up a family skeleton. Go take—"

"The hell with your shower!" Michael exploded. "Who gives a damn what the police think? I've got to know why he did it. I've got—"

"—to take a shower," I finished grimly. Picking him up clothes and all, I carted him struggling into the bathroom. It was something of a job to hold him, but he was thoroughly doused before he managed to send me crashing on my ear and slink out. I threw him a towel.

"Take a rubdown," I said.

"You go to hell!" But he caught the towel with his bad hand. I grinned and set to work on my own dressing, leaving him to his fuming. The atmosphere was so unnatural that I could have whooped for joy. I was busy with my tie before he got to the point where he could directly address me.

"Do you suppose there is any way that they could leave the aunts out of all this? If the story about my father hits the headlines, Aunt Martha will never get over it. Porter ought to be able to keep them away from the Skipper for a while anyway."

I said, "I think the best thing to do, Mike, is for me to go into the village on the first boat that gets here. I'll go straight to Porter and leave it all up to him. Then, if he'll let me, I'll push on to the Bilmshops. Ought to be back by seven tomorrow night, early."

Michael was silent for a moment. "That's decent of you, Jim."

I climbed into my coat. "Forget it," I said. "Keep your ear cocked for the Skipper. I'll see how the breakfast is coming."

Sputch On the Wall

In broad daylight, the effect of the electricity in the hall was rather ghostly. The sooner we got all the lights out and the house nearly normal, the better for everyone concerned. Switching them off as I went, I headed down the hall and into the servants' quarters. At the head of the back stairs I remembered the lights in Higgins' room and in Judy's. I turned back. With no eye except from the bed, I made for Higgins' dresser. And then something leapt into my throat.

Directly in front of me at the level of my eyes, was a splotch in the wall plaster, and within that splotch the bullet which had ended Higgins' life. Passing a bewildered hand over my eyes, I looked again. There was no mistake. The bullet was there. Was my memory of the situation wrong? I now rushed to the bed and flung back the blanket.

Higgins lay on his back with his arms flung out at his sides. The forearm lights climbed in the right hand. In his right temple was the bullet hole, and in the left, the ragged gash made by the bullet leaving through. But the mark in the plaster was in the wall on his right!

Ideas began bounding through my head. A man falling in a faint or for any reason, other than a blow, falls on his face. Unless Higgins had been sitting on the bed, he could never have landed in that position. Could he have been sitting? I crouched until my head was approximately at the level of a person sitting on the bed. For a bullet to have passed through both sides of the man's head and landed where it had it must have passed right through the top of his skull. And Higgins' wounds were in his temples.

Much as the idea of the old man's guilt hurt, I wanted the whole thing to be over with. Perhaps, I reasoned frantically, the impact of the bullet spun him around. Perhaps—My next realization sent me staggering against the wall. The revolver was in his right hand, and Higgins had been left-handed! Murder number three!

Right then and there my state of mind clarified. All along I had been really as much afraid that we would catch the murderer as I was that we wouldn't. But I thought of that tortured old face as I had last seen it alive. I took one more look at it as it was then. And I wanted that murderer. If it was Michael himself, I was going to see him die before my own eyes.

My mind began to work as coldly as if it were dealing with a problem in bridge. Not the Skipper. I had been sitting beside her when the shot was fired. Furthermore, the murderer had put her behind that chest. Higgins must have seen them, to be undoing.

I devise a trap for the murderer, tomorrow.

Honest Bill.

What the treasury department should do is to take a net and go out to catch itself a perfect taxpayer—the kind Mr. Roosevelt says everybody should be.

This rare specimen might be called Honest Bill. He should be put on exhibit either alive or stuffed, for the benefit of his backward countrymen. Honest Bill would have these distinguishing characteristics:

In questions of taxation, he always would give the tax collector the benefit of the doubt.

To compensate for error, he always would pay the government a little extra.

He never would grumble about taxes, because to him they would represent a patriotic duty.

If he saw a loophole, he wouldn't sneak through it, because he would think it was a pity that the smart lawyers who frame tax legislation had slipped up a little bit.

He would disagree, as Henry Morgenthau, treasury secretary, has disagreed, with J. P. Morgan, who says taxing is a legal question and any one has a right to do anything as long as the law does not say it is wrong.

Most important of all, if Honest Bill ever graduated from the penny ante income class into the big money where government would drool over the prospect of taking away 80 per cent or more of his income, he wouldn't hire an experienced tax expert to protect his interests. No sir. He would hand everything over with a smile and assume that no one had a better right to it than the dear old U. S. A.

Don't hold your breath till Mr. Roosevelt announces that Bill Smith, the perfect taxpayer, has been captured and will be placed on view in a glass case on the White House lawn.

Admitting It.

Now that Walter Lippmann, who enjoys an international reputation and commands a handsome salary for keeping abreast of things, has broken down and admitted he needs more time to catch up to the pile of new-deal stuff on his desk, some all-around admitting might be in order.

How about some honest $10,000 a year congressmen admitting they don't know what's in about half the bills Mr. Roosevelt's smart young men have been sending to the capitol for approval?

How about some administrators and special pleaders admitting they never read some of the laws they're supposed to enforce and explain?

How about some ax grinders admitting they aren't interested in the whole ax if only they can get an edge on their own special little corner?

How about some politicians, including a handful of prominent ones, admitting they've put so many irons into the fire they can't keep track of them all?

How about the public in general admitting that it's full—up to here—with a lot of junk it has been commanded to swallow whole on the theory that as long as it keeps on swallowing it won't have any time to talk back?

Up a Million.

Some time within the next two weeks the general assembly will be convened in special session to consider an appropriation bill for the next two years.

This will be the second attempt to get action on an appropriation bill. The first attempt failed because the Davey administration ran headlong into an economy bloc in the senate.

So the legislature adjourned, to allow time for a compromise. The new proposed budget, however, calls for approximately a million dollars more than the original one. This is said to be Gov. Davey's answer to the economy bloc.

There seems only one way to interpret it. Gov. Davey is not interested in curtailing expenses. That will be interesting to Ohioans who remember what Mr. Davey said when he was trying to get elected.

Overlooked.

Maybe the toughest labor problem of all is the one which gets the least attention.

Wives and mothers know all about it, but they lack spokesmen to present their case.

There's nothing sensational anyway in trying to feed a family and meet obligations without enough money. It's just sordid and miserable.

Home makers never know how long a strike is going to last, yet their job is to make the cash and the credit, when the cash runs out, last just a little longer than the strike.

They don't all feel the same way about the issues of the strike itself, of course. They take sides, just like their husbands, and not all of them agree with their husbands, either.

Labor organizers, knowing they can't appeal successfully to a workman whose wife has the opposite viewpoint, try to get as many women as possible on their side.

Some day, everybody hopes, the machinery of labor relationships will be so efficient that strikes will be unnecessary and undesirable.

Love in Blum.

If Leon Blum, the French premier, collects press clippings, he must be blushing to the ends of his drooping mustache.

M. Blum has rounded out a year as head of France. When he tackled the job, no one gave him more than a fighting chance. Everything was against him, including "the people who mattered."

Furthermore, he rode to power on the voting wave of a "popular front" government. He knew what that meant. He would have to cool down the red hots and persuade them to do what they are notoriously unwilling to do—work together and not get peevish when they can't reform the whole world between sunup and sundown.

M. Blum managed it somehow. He talked sense into the radicals and gave orders to the reactionaries. No orator, no rabble rouser, he nevertheless kept his following together. He moved, but in only one direction at a time. He never tried to ride off in all directions at once.

He discouraged strikes, pacified frightened business men, played out the string on foreign relations and convinced a lot of European skeptics that there's something to this idea of democracy after all. At the end of a year, he is stronger than ever.

All these things M. Blum could read in American newspapers, if he cared to. It would be a pity if he missed a chance to discover how even a Socialist can whoop up a following by demonstrating possession of so rare a quality as horse sense.

Last Frontier.

Excitement, they say, is another one of those relative matters. That is, something which excites one person may not excite another, or the same thing may not excite the same person twice.

It's necessary to frame up some convenient explanation like this for the issue which has arisen in some places over minimized bathing costumes for men. On the face of it, there's nothing to get excited about.

A man attired only in trunks is, it must be admitted, almost completely unclothed. Twenty-five years ago such a sight would have blighted the lives of sensitive women and upright men.

But in the meantime the battle over bathing costumes for women has been fought. The nudists won by a halter neck. A partly grown generation never has seen a modest bathing suit, except in pageants.

Yet, there still can be an issue over a man's right to bare his chest if he wants to. What can it possibly matter to any one? Who cares about a man's chest, any way?

Some one, apparently, cares quite a lot. Maybe men have an asset they have been taking too lightly, but more likely it's just one last hopeless volley of excitement over undressing, in a war which was lost when Annette Kellerman appeared in tights and got away with it.

Where Responsibility Rests

WASHINGTON, June 10—Responsibility for the state of violence and reign of terror which prevails in the middle west today as a consequence of incessant labor warfare rests squarely upon the Roosevelt administration.

President Roosevelt, by his alliance with the CIO, largest of the campaign contributors, and by his influence with the state governments, has set out to encourage the unionization of labor irrespective of the desires of individual workingmen.

There is no question here any more but that the entire federal machinery has been placed at the disposal of the CIO and that every government agency is hesitant to take any action which might offend the CIO, even though this might be at the same time a denial of justice to other groups of citizens.

The age-old right to work, which has remained a fundamental liberty of the citizen from the very beginning of the republic, now has been set aside by the assumption of an unlimited right on the part of other workmen not only to strike, but to use any means they choose in preventing fellow-workmen from continuing in employment.

The steel strikes in Ohio and Michigan plants, with their attendant riots that have occurred in the last week have clearly outlined that picketing, which has hitherto been confined to peaceful means, now is characterized by armed intervention.

Whether the employers with their arsenals and strike-breakers, or the employes' groups, with their imported strong-arm men, have had sufficient provocation, the fact remains that the carrying of concealed weapons or the brandishing of fire-arms or weapons of any kind by labor pickets or by guards for employer groups reflects on the capacity of the local authorities to maintain law and order.

For the last four years, the opponents of the Roosevelt administration have insisted that states' rights should not be abolished in favor of a centralized government. Today, the administration is indifferent to the local disturbances, taking the position that this is something for the states to handle.

More Than State Matter

Insofar as the preservation of order is a local matter, the administration is right, but there have been in the last fortnight many instances of direct interference with the stream of interstate commerce and the use of physical violence to prevent shipments of goods destined for interstate commerce.

There is every reason to believe that the President has from the beginning believed that the violence would be short-lived and that the situation would mend itself. He has relied on the labor leaders not to allow matters to get out of hand. But the interruption in the electric light and power plants in Saginaw and Flint show that, notwithstanding the protests of John Lewis himself, the sabotage has continued.

To what may this be attributed? Either to the existence of groups of malcontents of communist inspiration who burrow their way into union organizations and take advantage of their innocent brethren, or to the fact that, in the state of Michigan, Governor Murphy's handling of the sit-down strike in General Motors has been taken to mean that the sky is the limit for the labor union activities.

Governor Murphy won the applause of many persons when he was able to bring to a peaceful termination the General Motors strike, but today the people of Michigan, if not the people of neighboring states, may be paying the penalty for his unintentional avoidance of the firm hand in government.

To use troops to take sides, of course, has long been denounced as an improper employment of force by a state government, but to insist that neither employers nor employes shall carry weapons or apply physical force to induce or resist collective bargaining efforts is a logical function as well as obligation of the governor of a state.

Time was when matters of this kind used to be handled by proper exertion of the judicial arm of the government. But, in the middle of a delicate labor situation, President Roosevelt himself has denounced the judiciary and encouraged the masses to believe that the courts are neither fair nor equitable. If, therefore, the strikers, many of whom are not American citizens, but aliens, are led to believe that they need not pay any more respect to the courts than does the President of the United States, a crisis necessarily develops in which aggrieved citizens feel the necessity of taking the law into their own hands.

Not Healthy Condition

The spectacle of a big steel company begging for protection for its workmen, who fear the coercion and threats of union organizers, is not a healthy one and the irony of it all was that the Wagner labor relations act was to have brought an end to strikes, or at least to have curtailed their number and scope. Today strikes are more extensive than they have been in a long while and are characterized by violence not unlike that which has frequently occurred in past history.

With state and federal governments in the hands of members of the Roosevelt party and with the moral power of the President of the United States more far-reaching with the people than it ever has been, the failure of Mr. Roosevelt to denounce illegal strike methods by employers and employes, sit-down tactics, the firing on airplanes and the interference with the mails, are all part of a gradual development of a state of anarchy in the middle west.

Is the federal government waiting for some ghastly event to turn the tide of public opinion toward rigid regulation of employer-employe relations? Is the drifting process part of a policy of condoning confusion on the ground that it is an inevitable counterpart of labor warfare, but really accepting it as a basis for a one-man dictatorship over capital and labor?

The silence of the White House in the face of the worst breakdown of civil authority in fifty years is certainly not being explained by the customary spokesmen. Only the President himself evidently knows why the conditions of disorder are permitted to continue when he himself, by a word to the governors and to his own national labor relations board to be fair to both sides, could end the strife overnight.

For if the right to work has been permanently abolished and no protection is to be given workmen who refuse to join a union they do not want, then the true labor situation is far different than has been supposed and the country is in for some labor strife bordering on civil war.

Nation on Wheels

(By The United Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 10.—There are enough motor vehicles for every one in the United States to take a ride at the same time, according to registration figures compiled by the U. S. bureau of public roads.

Registrations during 1936 reached an all-time high of 25,221,291, of which 21,197,655 were passenger vehicles and 4,023,606 trucks and tractor trucks. These figures have been increasing at approximately 150,000 a month this year.

The bureau said registration in 1936 increased nearly 2,000,000 over 1935 and surpassed the former all-time high of 1930 by 1,200,000 vehicles. Total registrations are expected to reach the 30,000,000 mark some time next year.

Some idea of the number of automobiles and trucks can be gained by assuming that a highway wide enough to accommodate all could be built from New York to Los Angeles. It would take a 35-lane highway with an automobile for each 20 feet.

Every state showed an increase in registration over the previous year. Registrations in 16 states increased more than 10 per cent over 1935 figures. The average increase for the entire United States was 7.6 per cent.

Registration receipts amounted to $359,753,000. Trucks and tractor trucks composed less than 15 per cent of the registrations but accounted for nearly 24 per cent of the receipts.

New York state led both in the number of vehicles, 2,459,542, and in receipts, $46,291,000. California had almost as many vehicles, 2,327,951, but receipts were only $21,057,000, less than half those of New York.

Pennsylvania, with 1,915,116 vehicles, was second in receipts with $35,331,000. Ohio was fourth with receipts of $23,256,000 from 1,777,048 registrations and Michigan had an income of $19,737,000 from 1,573,676 vehicles.

Illinois followed closely with receipts of $19,410,000 from 1,659,750 registrations. Texas was the only other state with more than 1,000,000 motor vehicles deriving revenue of $17,725,000 from 1,475,124 registrations.

No Kick Left in Farm Bill

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 10—It is too much to say any farm bill is ever dead, but the pending O'Neal-Pharaoh-Wallace bill is as dead as one could get.

The reason you have heard no sounds of it is because it is being garroted by legislative friends of the farmer in the house. They are not ready to make any announcements yet, but have decided their course. They plan to prune the ever-normal granary provision for wheat and a mild tenant farm provision from the measure. These two ideas they will pass before adjournment. The bulk of the omnibus bill (production control, surplus control, crop insurance, etc.) they do not want.

If they go through with their intentions, as now seems certain, it will be the first time in history that a farm bill, backed by farm organizations and the federal government, ever failed. The bill, as you know, is sponsored by Chairman O'Neal of the Farm Bureau Federation, based on some ideas from Pharaoh, and worked up by Agriculture Secretary Wallace.

The opposition, as you should know by now, is based on belief that the farm situation is being fairly well handled at present, that the new production control measures may wreck the existing system on constitutional rocks.

Outlook

The line-up on other important legislation has not changed much lately. The prophets are somewhat fearful that President Roosevelt will spring a coup for a two-judge compromise on supreme court packing. There are about six senators you cannot put your finger on. They might backslide. However, odds still are against any increase in the court.

The minimum wage-maximum hour bill will become law with minor alterations. Word has come from the White House that it is must . . . the power planning program is also must, but not in capital letters. The plot is to jam it through near the close of the session, but the plot may fail.

A few legislative stoppers will be put in tax evasion holes, after some auto magnates, a friend of Coolidge, several publishers and a few ex-Liberty Leaguers are fried in publicity fat....some form of slums clearance will be passed. Details now are being argued out with the treasury, and the program will not amount to much for 1938, but will be enlarged for later years....Congress will be in session until fall if Mr. R. can keep the boys here. He may have difficulty finding a quorum along about July 1.

Undying Fame

A great tribute to the late Senator Huey P. Long was paid at the Louisiana State University commencement exercises a few days ago. A nationally known orator likened Long's educational efforts to those of Thomas Jefferson at the University of Virginia, and said:

"It is fitting therefore, that adequate recognition be given by the state and the nation to the part played by one of your outstanding leaders in the development of this institution. Some of his accomplishments will grow dim with the passing of time, but this university may remain for centuries as a monument to the unselfish zeal in the cause of education of your late distinguished United States Senator Long."

A prize of 100 stuffed ballots for any elective office will be awarded to any reader who guesses the identity of the orator without looking for the answer in the last line of this column.

Enlightenment

A congressman broke down and confessed why he was going to vote for the President's court packing plan at a meeting of the Demagogue club this week. He said in substance:

"I want to stay in Washington. My wife and two daughters can not stand our little home town of 3,000 or 4,000 people more than 60 days each year. If I oppose the President and am defeated, he would be unwilling to give me an appointment in Washington. If I support him, he will have to take care of me whether or not I am re-elected. That way I can not lose.

"I would be willing to risk voting against it, but only the thinking people of my district are opposed to it. The great bulk of the people either do not know anything about it or do not care.

"Why should I stick out my neck to be a hero for the few? It's not my fault but my people's if they do not put a premium on courage. I'm just giving them what they want."

Answer

The Louisiana speech was delivered by Postmaster General James A. Farley. And he promised to open a postoffice at L. S. U.

Time rockets on.

A Manhattan Institution Passes

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 10.—New York used to have several clubs where actors, authors and sundry creative folk could meet their kind once a week and let themselves go. Such organizations as the Kit Kat, The Sixty and The Mayfair. Late Saturday night affairs that edged into sunup with bing and go.

They were the generating ground for many romances. Billie Burke's and Flo Ziegfeld's. Billy Seeman and Phyllis Haver. And others. The requirements for admittance were finely drawn. Only those who had achieved in the arts were allowed past the entrance ropes.

The clubs made tidy sums for several sponsors who could work 20 weeks a year and lead the life of Riley the rest of the time with the profits. Today there is no such club and not likely to be any more. Letting down the bars was their undoing.

People, in the vernacular, Who Didn't Matter but had plenty of money got over the barriers. And their number increased astonishingly. Soon all the regulars, resenting the change, absented themselves, and when they did the gate crashers, of course, were no longer interested.

• • •

One of New York's most picturesque millionaires is the porcine subway builder, Sam Rosoff, whose headline escapades have run the gamut from flash spending to suspicion in a murder mystery. He is the rollicking, brawny and booming personification of American Opportunity. An immigrant boy from Russia who has continued to be the proverbial diamond in the rough, he lives at a smart avenue inn, rides in sartorial grandeur in the park, gives Lucullian dinners and is the most extravagant tipper the night clubs have ever had.

• • •

Monotoype: There is a species of young lady who comes bobbing into the bars at cocktail time, bright, brave and bewildered. She has the appearance of not having been awake long and there is a slight husk to her voice often associated with gin and cigarets. There is always a group willing gladly to have her join them and exchange brilliant banter for a flock of drinks. She leaves at the dinner hour a bit unsteadily and that is all that is seen of her. Never in cafes at dinner, at the theater or night clubs. She is the Manhattan Cocktail Girl, and I was told the other evening that many hold responsible positions as secretaries or in sales departments. They like to have their sundown fling solitaire, then go to some quiet tea room for dinner and to bed early.

• • •

It is often noted that when a famous maitre d'hote leaves a favored post he has occupied a long time and goes to some more tempting offer he is almost invariably on way to oblivion. No one knows why, but a head waiter's following will not follow him when he decides to move. Once they lose cast they rarely come back. Today there are a dozen head waiters of ten years ago, whose welcoming smiles were highly prized but who changed their jobs, and today you may run across them in obscure side street restaurants or, in instances, merely serving as waiters.

• • •

Tommy Lyman continues to be the crooning marvel of the night clubs. A sad-eyed, shy and bandbox neat lone wolf, he has been whispering his torchy laments for 15 years. Long before the Vallees and Crosbys were ever heard of. In London, Paris, New York and Palm Beach Away from the night haunts where he wanders from table to table, he pokes about botanical gardens and is always sending flowers to his friends. Lyman frequently sang for the Duke of Windsor, when, as the Prince of Wales, he was making the incognito rounds of Paris with Jed Kiley.

• • •

Thingumbobs: The Duke of Kent is a collector of ornate cuff links. . . . John McCormack now retired, has salvaged the biggest fur tune out of his voice of any singer . . . Sumner Blossom is such a slider around in the editorial chair that he buys four pairs of pants with each suit . . . Lowell Thomas likes to arrive for his broadcasting engagements just in the nick of time . . . It makes him forget all thoughts of nervousness . . . Victor Moore is one of America's richest actors, most of his money coming from his savings as a standard vaudeville act . . . Noel Coward reveals Alexander Woollcott in his autobiography as his closest American friend.

Not many graphic writers have been able in several paragraphs to sum up the endless milling and jostling of New York crowds as did a Texan in three words after his first walk up Fifth avenue at the busy home-going hour. As he weaved through the ceaseless flow he finally stopped for a moment on the curb, glanced up and down and murmured: "Many a human."

BERLIN, June 10 — Day and night a group of pleasant-voiced young men in Nazi Germany's great broadcasting headquarters here are saying "Hallo" in seven languages to all corners of the world. They bring free news, entertainment and greetings from Hitler.

The young men speaking the seven languages can be heard every hour of the day or night. Even as the sun is rising in one corner of the world, while setting in another, one of these broadcasters it's all the same except that they must substitute "Good Morning" for "Good Night" in the proper manner as indicated on their program chart. They are almost all foreigners, speaking their native language to listeners in their own far-away countries.

Courts World Favor

Propaganda Minister Dr. Goebbels employs them in order to curry the favor of the world's ear and to bring to foreign people in their own language Nazi Germany's message and entertainment. Every evening in the Rockies and Andes radio in your trailer is tuned in to listen to Strauss waltzes, you will sooner or later hear a voice saying:

"And now the German broadcaster wishes all its listeners at home and in and beyond the frontiers a good night. Heil Hitler!"

To some it's good night, but equally pleasant voice in an adjoining soundproof room is saying good morning from Berlin to the big game hunter shaving in the African veldt or to the explorer broiling fish for his noonday meal above the Arctic circle.

OHIO LAW SCHOOL

The first work in the law college of Ohio State university was in a room on the second floor of the Franklin county courthouse. Lectures and recitations were held at the courthouse in the first place because there was no room set apart for the work at the university and because instruction work was done entirely by attorneys practicing at the Columbus bar, whom it would inconvenience to go to the campus.

The first dean of the school was Judge Marshall J. Williams, Ohio's chief justice. His health failing, Judge Williams resigned after two or three years' service and was succeeded by William Hunter.

BRITISH KEEP SOVIETS OUT OF PEACE TALKS

Fears Inclusion of Russia Would Further Alienate Italy and Germany.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 10—Great Britain defeated today a Soviet attempt to join four-power discussions of safety guarantees for warships of the "hands off Spain" patrol—discussions which are intended to woo Germany and Italy back to the neutrality fold.

Great Britain decided to confine the talks to herself, France, Italy and Germany because, she felt, enlargement of the number of conferees might cause friction and further alienate the Nazi and Fascist states.

Italy and Germany now are operating their warships in the waters of Spain with complete liberty of action from the non-intervention patrol, which is supposed to check on violations of a 27-national ban on the sending of foreign fighters and guns to Spain. They withdrew from the patrol after Spanish government planes had bombed their ships, and Germany's warships shelled the Spanish government port of Almeria in reprisal.

The British refusal to let Soviet Russia and other countries in on the safety guarantee talks at this time was communicated to Soviet ambassador Ivan M. Maisky by the British vice chairman of the group, Captain Euan Wallace.

YOUTH IS CAPTURED AFTER LONG CHASE

Owner of Stolen Bicycle and Father Follow Lancaster Boys to Radnor.

A 16-year-old Lancaster boy, Robert Walton, is being held by police here today in connection with the theft of a bicycle. He was caught last night near Radnor by Harold Uncapher, 15, owner of the bike, and his father, Everett L. Uncapher of 344 East Center street.

Another Lancaster youth, who was with Walton when the bicycle was taken about 5 o'clock from near the Harding Memorial, escaped in the darkness when Mr. Uncapher and his son came upon them on the highway near Radnor. The pair was hitch-hiking southward on state route 23, yesterday afternoon and apparently took the bicycle from near the Memorial.

Harold, who was working at the Memorial grounds, missed his bicycle at 5 o'clock when he was ready to return home. He called his father and they began a search which led them over state route 23 to Delaware and continued until the capture of the youth about 9 o'clock.

Their first clue in locating the bicycle came from a Prospect filling station attendant who told of having seen a pair of boys headed toward Radnor with a bicycle. Continuing their search in a heavy rain they came upon the pair, one riding the missing bike, the other walking.

Harold leaped from his father's car and nabbed the one youth, but the other eluded Mr. Uncapher and escaped into a nearby wheat field. Mr. Uncapher and his son returned the captured youth to the police department and brought the bicycle along to their home.

The Lancaster youth after being held over night by police was to be turned over to juvenile court authorities today, Police Chief Marks said this morning.

MISS HARLOW'S BODY IN CEMETERY CRYPT

Will Be Cremated or Placed in Mausoleum; Souvenir Hunters Take Flowers.

By The Associated Press

GLENDALE, Calif., June 10—The body of Jean Harlow rested today in a cemetery crypt snatched bare of flowers by souvenir hunters, awaiting final disposition by her mother, Mrs. Jean Bello.

The remains may be cremated. If not, they will be placed in a mausoleum in Forest Lawn Memorial park.

Barred from the funeral service yesterday, a crowd wailed for hours outside the cemetery, hoping at least to see some of the 300 film notables inside. This they missed but after the brief service was finished and everyone was gone, they rushed through unlocked gates and scrambled for bits of the thousands of flowers. Some had to be content with tiny scraps of fern.

One floral token, however, went with the platinum blond screen star to her resting place. Placed in her hand just before the casket was closed for the last time, it was a single gardenia, her favorite flower, with the inscription, "Goodnight, my dearest darling." The card was unsigned but the handwriting was believed to be that of William Powell, constant escort of Miss Harlow in recent months.

THE marriage of Miss Angela M. Andres, daughter of Mrs. George F. Andres of 142 Patterson street, to Rudolph L. Milner of Chillicothe, was solemnized this morning at 9 o'clock in St. Mary Catholic church. The ceremony was read by Rev. Father William J. Spickerman, pastor, who was the celebrant for the nuptial mass.

When Miss Andres approached the altar on the arm of her brother George W. Andres, she wore a fitted dress of bridal satin with a neckline fashioned of seed pearls, and long sleeves ending in points over the hand. Tiny covered buttons fitted the back to the waistline. Her wedding veil of illusion net fell from a cap fashioned of satin bands and orange blossoms, the full length of the train of her gown, and she carried a bride's bouquet of calla lilies. Her only ornament was a tiny jeweled watch, the gift of the bridegroom.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Helen Brigel of Columbus, a classmate at St. Carmel School of Nursing. She wore a gown of pastel green organza in a redingote style over a taffeta slip with a wide-pleated hem. Her hat was a large Leghorn, and she carried a Colonial bouquet of pink flowers.

Mr. Milner's best man was his cousin, August Runkle of Toronto, O., and ushers were J. B. Andres, brother of the bride, and John Hartman.

The bride's mother chose for the wedding a costume of navy blue and white, and her flowers were a corsage of white gardenias.

Spring flowers filled the vases on the altar and at either side, and at the chancel railing were two baskets filled with pink and white peonies.

Following the ceremony there was a breakfast for the bridal party and members of the immediate family at Hotel Harding. A three-tiered wedding cake decorated with a miniature bride and bride-groom, and garlands of white roses and greenery centered the large table at which covers were laid for the bride and bridegroom and their attendants, Rev. Father Spickerman, Dr. and Mrs. Lambert Kirschkens of Toronto, Miss Evelyn Brigel, Miss Frances Ater of Columbus, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Schroeter, Mrs. Andres, Miss Emma Smithson, F. A. Huber, William Tallon, and the ushers, Mr. Hartman and Mr. Andres, and George W. Andres.

Mr. and Mrs. Milner will motor through the east on their honeymoon. For traveling the bride chose navy sheer with white accessories.

Mrs. Milner is director of nurses at St. Carmel hospital in Columbus, of which she is a graduate. She was graduated from St. Mary of the Springs college and has been on the faculty of St. Carmel school of nursing since 1932. Mr. Milner was graduated from Ohio State university and is associated with the engineering department of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad company.

Motive Persuades Dicky Not to Ask Boys Reason for Fight in Boat.

I went to something, and that was to flag Dicky's inquiry [illegible] Junior and Roderick had [illegible] me so viciously that [illegible] all the warnings about [illegible] in boats, and had [illegible] them and plunged them [illegible] into the lake.

Punishment swift and adequate [illegible] have. Upon that point [illegible] with my husband. [illegible] a shrewd suspicion about [illegible] for the quarrel, and [illegible] that if my surmise were [illegible] any queries upon that subject which they were compelled to answer would easily come under the constitutional edict concerning "cruel and unusual punishments."

Yet, how to divert the inquiry? It was an old but effective subterfuge that I employed, spurred by the necessity for quick action. I began to cough and choke violently, and, staggering to my feet, rushed to Dicky. Pointing to my throat, I caught his hand and drew him toward the door, managing to give him a private signal as I did so.

"Some water, quick, Hank!" Dicky said, and then closed the veranda door between us and the gaping, sorely troubled boys.

"You've scared the kids to death," he said crossly when we were safely out of hearing. "What's eating you?"

"You mustn't ask them why they were fighting," I gasped, for my coughing had been too realistic altogether for comfort.

"Why not?" he demanded tartly, and I did not resent his acerbity, for we had a tacit agreement that we will not interfere with each other when discipline of the children is concerned.

"Because to make them answer would be too cruel," I whispered. "Wait!" for Hank was coming through the door with a glass of water. Dicky took it and proffered it to me gravely.

"She'll be all right now," he assured the patiently worried boy. "Go back and tell the others she's over the spasm."

"Gee! that's good!" Hank said, and went back through the door.

"Come clean, quick," Dicky adjured me. "What the devil is this all about, anyway?"

"Just this," I said. "I'm as sure as if they'd told me so that they're fighting about something connected with Betty Gibbs. And you know it would be simply terrible for them if they were compelled to bring that out, and especially before Bill and Hank."

For a long second Dicky's displeasure warred with his sense of humor. Then his risibles won or rather lost, for he could not control them as he struck a fist into the palm of his other hand and gave himself up to laughter.

Dicky Is Amused

"'Cherchez la femme!'" he chuckled at last. "They're beginning early! But you're right. It would smack of the rack and the fire to press that question. I'll simply ignore it when we go back, and they'll probably think your coughing fit made me forget all about it. Come along, Machievelli." He caught my hand, put it into the curve of his arm, and drew me back into the living room of the camp. I had but one fear as I walked along with him, and that of far different caliber than the one I had brought out to the veranda. I knew Dicky's volatile nature so well that I feared his amusement at the boys would make him too lenient with them.

But his good sense triumphed over his amusement, and he was the stern judge again as he faced the small boys whose tortured eyes were watching him in terror lest he repeat the query as to the reason for the fight.

"I do not need to tell you how terrible is this thing you have done," he said. "You probably realize by now that it is only a miracle one of you is not dead or seriously injured. And you must know that you have to be punished. The question is, how."

— The — Marry-Go-Round

BY HELEN ROWLAND

THE WOMAN YOU LOVE

When a man refers to a woman as "the woman I love," he pays her the highest possible tribute. Even a king could think of none more flattering, complete, and irrefutable. That's all there is—there isn't any more.

Yet, she may not be his "Ideal Woman"—not theoretically, anyhow. She may not be beautiful, docile, or even a skilled cook and housekeeper. And those are the three primary qualifications which nearly every man names first, in describing the Perfect Wife. Which shows how few brain-cells he uses in the most vital decision of his life.

* * *

As every woman knows, most beauty is bought and paid for, in these days; and almost any little moron can learn to cook, with or without a can-opener. Besides, any man can feed his stomach at a restaurant; but what he wants when he marries is a woman who will feed his heart and his mind and fill his life.

There is an ideal wife somewhere for every normal man; but you can't recognize her by the dimple in her chin, the blondness of her hair, or her ability to stir up a perfect omelette. The vital question is not do you like to dance with her, but is she the girl to whom you want to go with your worries, your problems, and your confessions? Is here the shoulder you long to rest your head on when it aches and you are feeling sorry for yourself?

Is she the one who bolsters up your self-esteem and self-confidence, and cures you of your inferiority complex? The girl who recognizes the really fine qualities in your character down underneath the boyishness and selfishness? The girl who has faith in your talent and ability—and who makes you think of yourself as a "very remarkable fellow?"

* * *

Does she understand your hopes and aims and dreams? Is she the woman who puts the pep and zest into life for you? Does she inspire and stimulate you and put the meaning into your job or your work?

Is she the girl with whom you always enjoy yourself? Is the most wonderful party a "dud" without her—and the deadliest party a "whizz" if she's there. Is she the Perfect Pal who is a relief from all other women?

Then, son, she is "the woman you love"—even though you may not know it. And even though she may not match in any single particular pattern of the "dream girl" you have always intended to marry.

TAFT TO DELIVER DENISON ADDRESS

NAZI BROADCASTS OF WORLD SCOPE

everybody to enjoy listening on German stations.

Special Zone Programs

Daily programs are meticulously chosen for each zone. Attention is concentrated in each particular case on the psychology and national characteristics of every country within the zone.

Zone Africa, for instance, has many homesick Germans who eat up lots of goosestepping brass bands and military marches. America likes the waltzes it knows so well and snappy new dance pieces.

The former German colonies come in for special treatment and the main idea is to feed them a program counted on to make their eyes green with jealousy for Hitler successes in Germany and abroad and so boost their enthusiasm for a demand to get back under the German flag. Birthday greetings, speeches and great Hitler demonstrations are broadcast to them at every opportunity.

News Bulletins Important

News bulletins occupy more than one-fifth of the program in every zone and are considered of first-rank importance. Contrary to the practices in other lands, they are not copyrighted and in fact their use by editors is encouraged.

Lately American correspondents in Germany occasionally heard of important announcements made on the German radio to foreign countries but not available till much later in Berlin. That is one method resorted to by Goebbels to encourage editors to listen to him and pick up their own news.

In German colonies, it is known that editors of small papers rely on such broadcasts for their foreign news. That means the German viewpoint but they retort by saying that it's better than paying British or French news agencies to supply them the scarcely camouflaged viewpoints of those respective countries.

KIRKPATRICK MAN HELPS SAVE AVIATOR

Edwin Weir, 26 son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Weir of one mile south of Kirkpatrick on Route 98, was one of the two men who rescued a Columbus pilot from his blazing plane Sunday, the parents learned yesterday. Weir, who left Marion county about six years ago and is now assistant general manager of the underwriting department of the Ohio Farm Bureau at Columbus, was aided in the rescue by a friend, James Phillips.

The near tragedy occurred 50 feet from the porch of Weir's home in Columbus at 2625 Washburn road as the pilot made a forced landing on the lawn when his plane caught fire. Russell Kirbert, 22, Ohio State university student, was the pilot.

Weir wrote his parents that the plane struck a wire as it was about to land and flopped upside down to the ground. Weir and Phillips rushed out, and pulled Kirbert from the burning plane. Gasoline had been sprayed in a wide circle and the moment after they had extricated the pilot, the plane burst into a fierce blaze and burned to a skeleton.

The two men put the injured pilot into Weir's car and rushed him to Grant hospital, arriving there before the ambulance reached the scene of the accident. Kirbert's shoes and trousers were burned completely, Weir said. The rescuers were uninjured.

Columbus newspapers placed the picture of the burned plane and the rescuers on the front page Monday. Weir was educated at Kirkpatrick school and Tiffin Business university.

LIEUT. M'MANES GETS LAW DEGREE

Marion Naval Officer Graduates at University.

Lieutenant Commander Kenmore M. McManes, son of Mrs. Emma McManes of 368 Olney avenue, was graduated yesterday from George Washington university in Washington, D. C., with the degree of juris doctor from the law school, the university announced today. It was the university's one hundred and sixteenth annual commencement.

McManes served on the editorial staff of the George Washington Law Review, legal quarterly published by the law school. He studied at the law school for the last three years.

Both his mother and sister, Miss Delores McManes, former city health nurse, visited in Washington, D. C. recently.

These Signs Mean WORMS!

Mothers and doctors are often puzzled by signs of Round or Stomach Worms—first, because these Worms are hard to detect—second, because the signs are mistaken for Constipation, Simple Anemia, Nervous Stomach, Excitability, etc.

This "Forgotten Menace" of Grandma's day still troubles both city and country children of all ages, because the infection is so easily caught from flies, dogs, uncooked vegetables, fruit, water, etc.

REVIVAL IS OPENED AT MARION CHURCH

Rev. Clyde Williams, field representative and young people's worker at Olivet college, at Olivet, Ill., opened a 12-day revival meeting at the First Nazarene church last night. Special music included numbers by Rev. Leo Johnson, pastor of the Nazarene church at Upper Sandusky.

Rev. Williams based his sermon on John 15:14. "Ye are My friends if ye do whatsoever I command you."

"Christ calls us friends that we may know what He knows," he said. "If you are not living close enough to the Savior to know these things it is your own fault; He is not our Savior because we choose Him, but because He chooses us," he told the congregation.

Services will be held each night at 7:30 with special music by local talent.

FAMILY NIGHT AT CALVARY CHURCH

Services at Calvary Evangelical church tonight have been designated as "Sunday school family night," with members of the Sunday school taking part in the program.

The meeting will open at 7:45 with music by the orchestra and devotionals conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Heininger. C. Z. Zachman, superintendent of the Sunday school, will extend greetings. Marilyn Thompson of the beginners' department will give a recitation, and a male quartet composed of Arthur Creasap, Orus Wetzel, Marlowe Zachman and LeRoy Stull, will sing. A class of boys from the primary department will sing and Gene Smithson will contribute a violin solo. Songs by the junior department, a reading by Miss Virginia Rutherford, a solo by Miss Ethel Faye Locker, a family sketch and music by the orchestra will complete the program.

SILVER ST. CHURCH IS REMODELLED

Remodeling of the First Church of God on Silver street, to enlarge the seating capacity of the main auditorium, was completed this morning.

By cutting a wide archway in a partition the auditorium which formerly seated approximately 150 persons, was enlarged to accommodate an additional 70.

Money for the project was raised by the young people of the church in a revival campaign two weeks ago, and the carpenters, paperhangers and plasterers, most of whom belong to the church, donated their work. Children and other members assisted. Mrs. Lillie Swick is pastor of the church.

Legion Junior Baseball Tryouts Set To Start Toda

ALL YOUTHS UNDER 17-YEAR AGE LIMIT URGED TO ATTEND

Workouts Set for Uncapher Avenue Field Six Days a Week.

The initial practice call for youths who wish to try out for Marion's American Legion junior baseball team was issued today by Dr. F. L. Thomas, chairman of the committee in charge. The first practice session was set for this afternoon at 3 o'clock on the Uncapher avenue diamond, with the announcement that in case of rain the opening workout will be held tomorrow from 9 to 11 a. m.

The formation of a Junior Legion team here this season will give the city the first club of its kind in seven years. The sponsoring organization, Bird-McGinnis Post No. 162, is taking complete charge of the practice schedule and the playing season.

All boys who wish to try out for the team are invited to attend the practice sessions. Youths who were under the age of 17 at midnight of March 31 of this year are eligible to participate. In addition to the Marion team, other clubs reported organized in the Sixth district, of which this is a part, are 36 clubs in Columbus, six in Newark and one at Richwood.

In the Second district, located northwest of Marion, one team each has been reported formed at Lima, Ada and Kenton. Negotiations of the sponsoring group are already under way to book practice games with the three latter teams. Competition for the Marion team will be sought throughout a wide area, with games to be played on home and foreign fields.

The complete practice schedule of the team, with all sessions set for the Marion Steam Shovel Athletic field, follows: Monday, Thursday and Saturday from 3 to 5:30 p. m., and Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday from 9 to 11 a. m.

Members of the Junior Legion baseball committee, headed by Dr. Thomas as chairman, are Walter E. Hane, vice chairman, Dr. A. J. Wagner and Francis W. Bacon. The group will direct the activities of the team.

Although plans for the legion team are still in the tentative stage, it is hoped that members of the Marion High school club who can come under the age limit will comprise the nucleo of the organization.

JOE LOUIS REPORTED UNHURT IN CRASH

Doctors Plan Examination for Injuries at Wisconsin Camp.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 10 — Joe Louis was due for a double-barreled going-over — including an official search for automobile accident injuries—by the Illinois State Athletic commission today at his Kenosha, Wis., training camp.

Chairman Joe Triner, George Getz and Dr. Frank Lagorio, the commission's physician, had planned to devote this afternoon to seeing for themselves how far the Brown Bomber has progressed in preparing himself for his battle with Champion James Braddock at Comiskey Park June 22. It was to have been one of those routine "say 'ah'" and stethoscope things.

The visit assumed more serious proportions, however, after Louis' automobile, with the Bomber himself aboard, rammed another car after yesterdays' light workout. Triner was assured by telephone that the Negro challenger had escaped injury, but wanted to have Dr. Lagorio's professional judgment. The mishap occurred when Louis' car, driven by Carl Nelson, Negro policeman-bodyguard, crashed into one operated by Davis E. Hamilton of Kenosha, as the latter drove away from a curb.

MT. GILEAD TO PLAY

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, June 10—The newly-organized Mt. Gilead Independents baseball nine will play the first game of the season with Fredericktown at the Neal avenue field here at 2 p. m. Sunday. Dick Campbell, manager of the local team, states that the lineup will probably include Tom and John England, Gene Coleman, Dick Campbell, Ed Meckley, Paul Carmean, Dick Miracle, Francis Kubbs and Gene Dumbaugh.

Germany's steel shortage may handicap its building activities, and may lead to a rationing of supplies.

THE DETROIT DRAMA

"THE EYES OF ALL GOLF FANS ARE ON THE NATIONAL OPEN AT DETROIT.."
I FEEL LIKE A CROSSEYED MAN
GREATEST FIELD IN YEARS
TONY MANERO IS A MARKED MAN...
"THE GOLF WORLD-"
Brenne'39

That eagerly awaited classic of the links, the National Open Championship, is with us again, and this time Detroit is the scene of the carnage.

Of late the automobile city has been the scene of much club-swinging, what with strikes and near-riots; but at Oakland Hills the stick-wielding will be very orderly, with golf balls the only victims of the slugging.

Tony Manero, dapper Italian maestro of the fairways, is the defending champ, but you can get plenty of hay that says he won't repeat. Twenty-to-one is quoted against him, and those odds aren't generous, either.

Tony is a good golfer, but it just isn't in the cards for him to nail up another score like his 73-69-73-67 of a year ago.

That last 67 broke Harry Cooper's heart. Lighthorse Harry is trying again this year, but it may be that he is one of the golfing greats destined never to break into the charmed championship circle.

Sam Snead, Byron Nelson and Ralph Guldahl are the winter sensations who look like dangerous contenders. Long-hitting Jimmy Thomson may make trouble, since those wide-open Oakland Hills fairways suit his powerful but erratic driving game.

CROWD BOOS, CHEERS AS DEAN WINS, 8-1; TRIBE ON TOP, 12-6

Cincinnati Drops Double-Header to Boston, 5-2 and 5-0.

By SID FEDER

They laugh at him one day and respect him with cheers the next—depending on whether Dizzy Dean is popping off or pitching.

When he's doing the former, the folks seem to forget about his elbowing ability, and look on him as a sort of sideshow.

But when he gets out on that hill, and really puts his mind to foggin' 'em in, as he did yesterday in pinning back the ears of Carl Hubbell and the New York Giants 8-1, there's something about the big fellow that makes the crowd tip its hat.

A packed Polo Grounds let out one big "boo" and followed it up with a varied assortment of jeers for most of the game. But when it was all over, and Diz had polished off the Giants with three hits and one unearned run, the huge gathering couldn't help roaring in approval of the pitching perfection he displayed in the opener of the double-header.

The Hub-Diz rivalry was supposed to feature a repeat performance of last month's "Battle of St. Louis," when Dean's "duster" precipitated a general free-for-all in his last meeting with Hubbell and the Giants. Apparently in the outside hope that something similar would pop up for the Polo Grounds, a near-record week-day crowd of 55,577 paid their way in to see yesterday's doings. They didn't get any fist-swinging, but they were treated to a flock of baseball as the Giants followed up the opener defeat to take the night-cap 3-2 on Harry Dannings' ninth-inning pinch-homer, to hang onto the league lead.

The opening game marked the fourth straight time Hubbell has been belted out of the box. A week ago Monday the Dodgers ended his record string of 24 straight. Yesterday the Cards clouted him for 13 hits in eight innings.

The Chicago Cubs climbed into second place in their chase after the Giants by walloping Brooklyn's Dodgers 8-4, while the Pittsburgh Pirates slipped to third by losing to the Phillies 8-1. In the National League's other contests, the Boston Bees turned loose their two "old-man" rookies, Lou Fette and Jim Turner, and knocked off the Cincinnati Reds twice, 5-2 and 5-0.

Only one game escaped the weather man in the American League, with the Cleveland Indians topping the Boston Red Sox 12-6 to climb within half a game of the deadlocked leaders, Chicago's White Sox and the Yankees.

RAIN DELAYS THREE SOFTBALL CONTESTS

Rain last night caused the postponement of three league softball games set for the city's diamonds. Two of the games had previously been rained out and the third was originally postponed to permit one of the teams to put a complete line-up on the field.

In the No. 2 league, St. Mary was matched with Christian for the President field last night, while in the No. 1 loop, Trinity Baptist and Forest Lawn were set to cash at Garfield park and Wesley No. 1 was pitted against Salem at the M. S. S. field. The contests are scheduled for next Wednesday night.

Tonight's action on the city diamonds will center about the eight-team Industrial league. Two of the three undefeated teams in the loop, Defiance Pressed Steel and Keytown Camp, will clash on the President field.

COLUMBUS LOSES TO SLUGGING MILLERS 10-7 IN 10 INNINGS

Red Kress Drives in 5 Runs for Minneapolis; Toledo Loses.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 10—Ralph (Red) Kress, a pretty handy ball player during a major league career with the St. Louis Browns, Chicago White Sox and Washington Senators, apparently is out to slug his way back from Minneapolis into the big top again.

Sent down to Minneapolis by the Senators when younger players came along this year, Kress had provided a big share of the punch that has made the Millers contenders, for the leadership of the American Association. His batting average today was .340, quite a way from the top, but decorated with such items as 15 home runs and 55 runs batted in, both leading marks for the league.

Kress' potent club drove in five runs yesterday as the Millers whipped Columbus, 10 to 7 in 10 innings, to move into a virtual tie with Toledo for second place, only a half-game behind the leading Milwaukee Brewers. He slammed

SELECT STOCKS CLIMB A LITTLE

Buyers Remain Cautious as Steel Strike Troubles Continue To Brew.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 10—Selected stocks puffed upgrade in today's market although many issues lacked recovery motive power.

Buyers maintained a wary attitude generally and dealings were extremely light throughout.

Fresh strike clashes in the Youngstown district were a chilling influence, but hope was growing in Wall Street that a settlement might be nearer than most people think.

Bonds improved in spots. Commodities were uneven.

Stocks displaying forward leanings included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Republic, Inland Steel, Baltimore & Ohio, International Harvester and General Electric.

In a restricted area were General Motors, Goodyear, Goodrich and Anaconda.

On the constructive side were the shipment figures of the U. S. Steel Corp. for May, revealing the highest total for this month since 1929. The aggregate was about 39,000 tons under that for April.

Boardrooms found some encouragement in the department of commerce survey showing manufacturing activity during May was maintained at a relatively high level notwithstanding labor difficulties in mills and factories that tended to disrupt schedules.

May retail and wholesale distribution throughout the country, while not quite as brisk as in the first months of the year, was said to have held well ahead of the same 1936 period.
